

Think of everything that has a part of your attention (tasks, commitments, projects, goals, ideas) and write down each item below—one per line. These can be any would-, should-, or could-do items.

Your list might include: projects to organize, tasks to complete, commitments to teammates, communications to send or receive, documents to read or review, meetings to schedule, planning/organizing, errands to run, financial obligations, home improvement, trips to plan, commitments to family members, etc.

About Getting Things Done®

Created more than 30 years ago by author and productivity expert David Allen, Getting Things Done[®] (GTD[®]) teaches skills to be focused and productive without stress and burnout. The course builds on the time-tested methodology used by millions around the world with skills to increase individual focus, say no to low-priority work, and improve team productivity. The course is available in on-demand, virtual, and in-person learning formats. To learn more about bringing GTD to your team or organization, visit CrucialLearning.com or call 1.800.449.5989.

©2022 VitalSmarts, LC, DBA Crucial Learning. All rights reserved. This material is for individual use only and shall not be reused, re-sold, shared, made publicly available, used to create derivative material, or copied. By receiving this material, you agree to comply with these requirements. Crucial Conversations and other trademarks and service marks found herein are owned by VitalSmarts, LC, DBA Crucial Learning. Getting Things Done, and GTD are registered trademarks owned by David Allen Company and used by VitalSmarts, LC, DBA Crucial Learning. Getting Things Done, and GTD are registered trademarks owned by David Allen Company and used by VitalSmarts, LC, DBA Crucial Learning.

Crucial Learning